

HIGH MOOD FOOD

This installation for a high-class food store in London really captures the imagination and illustrates the vast range of materials that Stellex are able to work with.

Himalayan Salt bricks were individually cut to suit the various fixtures and fittings.

Counter tops were designed and manufactured from Corian and the counters themselves were produced from Stainless steel. Finally, the stainless-steel doors were powder coated to give a much softer, less clinical feel and appearance.

As a company, we cover the whole of the UK with a highly skilled installation team and their attention to detail really does make all the difference. They really do turn your dream into reality.

We don't however just do bespoke. We offer a full range of standard, off the shelf product for all of your hygiene conscious requirements.
