

A bespoke contemporary fit out with modern touches. Wooden tongue and groove compliments stainless steel and glass throughout this beautiful farm shop set in the heart of the Cotswolds.

TODENHAM MANOR FARM

Todenham Manor Farm shop is set in the beautiful location of Stow-on-the Wold, heart of the Cotswolds. The farmland has been producing and supplying food to locals since Medieval times and the quality of produce has clearly been a decisive factor in this. Today is no different with sustainability at the forefront as it has clearly always been.

Homebred beef, lamb and pork along with seasonal vegetables, fish and a superbly stocked deli stand this farm shop apart from others. Stellex was therefore delighted when they were selected to provide their product to such a prestigious venue, which was once part of the Estate of Westminster.

Starting with a clear design brief, the Stellex team set about creating a tailored solution. With sustainability very much in mind, bespoke refrigerated displays, angled glass cabinets, meat hanging cases and a crushed ice fish display were all designed, manufactured and installed by Stellex. Further details such as tongue and groove wood frontage and a wooden butchers chopping block built into a Corian worksurface all add to the effect of a bygone era brought bang up to date.

Truly inspirational.

A crushed ice fish display cabinet matches the adjoining meat display.

